From Good to the Hood (Al otro barrio)

Cheating the tax man was just too tempting for Andrés. Besides, what are the chances of him getting caught? Well, as it turns out, pretty high! And that’s exactly what happens when a couple of tax inspectors turn up at his company to inform him that he owes the IRS a lot of money. To make matters worse, he now has to move his offices to the Los Caños neighborhood, a deprived area on the outskirts of the city, because for some time now, Andrés has been receiving a juicy grant for having his headquarters there, despite never even having set foot in the place. Reluctantly, he and his employees move to Los Caños and find it’s not as bad as they expected... It’s even worse!
